Courses in Globalization Studies

A Glo 305
Topics in Globalization Studies: Leadership in the Contemporary International Context (3)
This course offered online through the Blackboard Learning System. In the 21st century global society, how leadership is defined and practiced has expanded considerably. This course explores modern global leadership through surveying major leadership theories, considering how key dimensions of culture impact leadership practices, and investigating applications of leadership to modern leaders as well as students' own experiences. Examples of modern day leaders discussed in the context of a global society will include the conventional and unconventional, both overseas and in the U.S. Students will have an opportunity to engage in both individual and group activities including discussing case studies, writing leadership journal reflections, and building and applying a leadership concept map to their own lives.
(2492) Elliott, Michael
4 Week 2: June 26-August 4
Online course in Blackboard

A Glo 363 (=A Gog 250)
Geography of Latin America (3)
This course offered online through the Blackboard Learning System. An introduction to the geographical diversity of Latin America, reviewing the Continent's physical features, natural resources, societies, economies and politics, and relating them to its history and cultural traditions. Particular attention will be given to rural and urban living conditions, social and regional inequalities, population distribution, internal and international migration, and socioeconomic development issues.
(2189) McWilliams, Neusa
6 Week 2: June 26-August 4
Online course in Blackboard