

New for Fall 2010!

The World of Business: A Living and Learning Community for Freshmen Intending to Major in Business or Accounting

- Live in Indian Tower with other students interested in business
- Meet your business law professor at a welcome reception for you and your parents on moving-in day
- Explore different business concentrations and careers
- Begin developing your career-related skills
- Have lunch with your School of Business professor each week to discuss class assignments and other business topics
- Form study groups on your floor for your business-related classes
- Network with recent alumni and professionals to get that edge

YES I would like to participate in the World of Business
Living and Learning Community.

E-mail: _____ Phone # _____

ID Number: _____

Please note that participating in the World of Business Living and Learning community does not guarantee admission to the business or accounting major.

- The World of Business is intended to create an environment for freshmen to explore their interests in business.
- This program is NOT intended for students who are part of the School of Business Direct Admit program – those student have separate programming.
- The Living and Learning Community will:
  - Take BLAW 220 together in the fall semester
  - Include activities, guest speakers and one meal a week with faculty and graduate students
  - Provide an opportunity to meet faculty and staff from the School of Business
  - Be designed to help students assimilate into college life
  - Help freshmen make friends who share an interest in business
  - Provide students with an opportunity to get to know more about their intended major
- Students will live in freshmen housing – in the tower on Indian Quad
- Students will be expected to participate in events offered each month throughout the fall semester
