

Robin Campbell

Robin Campbell has worked as Curator for the New York State Office of Parks and Recreation's Bureau of Historic Sites since 1979. In addition to an undergraduate degree in art history from Catholic University, she holds an MA and Ph.D. from the University at Albany in history. She taught Material Culture at the Cooperstown Graduate Program and lectures frequently to community groups. Her most recent book, Mistresses of the Transient Hearth: American Army Officers' Wives and Material Culture, 1840-1880, will soon be published by Routledge.