Money, Emotions, and Communication

Have you ever thought about your personal money values and how they might impact your financial decision-making style? How often do you have conflicts over money matters and financial decisions? Join us as we learn about money personality traits, discover our “Money Color”, and how these traits influence money habits and attitudes. We’ll also discover strategies to avoid conflicts over money and how to work with a partner on making money choices that reflect compromise, negotiation, and shared goals.
