KING ANDREW THE FIRST.

INTEREST IMPROVEMENT OF DUES.
I have no money, and cannot get any work.

I'm so hungry.

I say Sam, I wonder where we are to get our costs?

I say Father—can't you get some spare change?

Father, can I have a piece of bread?

My dear, cannot you contrive to get some food for the children? I don't care for myself.

RETFRENCHMENT AND ECONOMY.

The friends of Old Tippecanoe will erect a Log Cabin in the Village of Kingston, on the 8th day of July, 1840, commencing at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, precisely.

Whigs, Conservatives, and Tippecanoes! come to the RAISING!!!

We invite all who reverence the plain and republican habits of the first settlers of the Country to be present. We invite all the descendants of the Hopseossa; the Piquets; the Tocatteuse; the Osages; the Creeks; the Micmacs; and all the other Indians of Liberty and Toleration, who sought no victories in "the land of the Free and the home of the Brave," to be on the ground.

FARMERS, MECHANICS, AND WORKING MEN!

The sagacious and persevering followers of the staundard surrised of Kentshech, who now occupy the White House at Washington, who open the courts of the Court of St. James, and who wear no gold and drink no wine, have declared war on the habits of the honest farmers of the Far West who live in log huts and drink hard cider, but who have the honor of eating the potatoes of your own planting, and who weep at the offer of the humblest kinder of the War of Independence. The log cabins of Tippecanoe are the taste of the nation's taste of Tippecanoe; the wholesome food of the nation's food of Tippecanoe; and the honest men of Tippecanoe are the men of Tippecanoe.

YE FRIENDS OF HARRISON!

Come on, then—let us all join as a band of brethren in removing the shack. Let us teach our illustrous rulers at Washington that we ponder the honest man, even with his log hut, his wooden dials, and his hard cider, far before the Rinkeshech candidate's mention. Let us take the log cabins of Tippecanoe and plant them in the heart of the Union; and let us teach them that hard cider is the true drink of the Union.

Thomas Clark, President.
John Carter, and
George P. Sharp, Vice-Presidents.

Born Baldwin, and
A. G. Nichols, Secretaries.

Contributions of Logs, over 24 or 36 feet in length, and 9'ole or 10'ole, will be received by the Building Committee; and Harr, Park, Beaux, and other Axe, by the Committee of Arrangement, at Mr. Hot's Hotel.

A splendid REPERT will be served up in good old democratic style, and ADDRESSES will be delivered by Distinguished Citizens from abroad. Come, then, almighty. Up goes the cabin, rain or shine!

Mathematics and the Principle of Harmony

The principle of harmony appears to be the foundation of music. It is the harmony between the notes that form a scale, such as the three notes in a chord. The notes in a chord are known as the root, the third, and the fifth. The root is the lowest note, the third is the note three steps above the root, and the fifth is the note five steps above the root. The notes in a chord are connected by a trapezoidal figure, which shows the three notes and their relationship to each other. The trapezoidal figure also shows the notes in a chord and their relationship to each other.

The dimensions of this monument should be so great as to allow for a pleasing passage to the summit on an inclined plane. The design for its construction, which ought to be ornamental, could be raised without the retaining means by which the dome was drawn up in 1793 by Mr. Latrobe.

If may be said that the capital of Washington has already been attained by 1828; it is true, but it is not my intention here to speak of the manner of choice of its instruments, or of the only means to say that as a whole it is an unimitating example.

In the direction of public edifices, strove after a simple component. Few of our artists are prepared to undertake works of this kind. We cannot but wonder, the minute style which is required in cabinet pictures, must be abandoned for the broader simplicity of composition demanded by grand pictures or even the great historical subject pictures. Our artists must be trained as the English Artists, are now being trained for the decoration of their magnificent public buildings.

The artists must be completely prepared, in every department, for every occupation to which they may be called.
