Billy Zakrzewski, a graduate student researcher at the Global Institute for Health and Human Rights, presented at the American Society of Criminology (ASC) conference in Philadelphia November 15 - 18.

Billy was on a panel regarding various topics relating to the cross-national study of lethal violence. He presented with a co-author on their in-progress paper about the application of suicide as a means for testing Institutional Anomie Theory (IAT). The paper is titled “Completing the Ratio: Suicide and an International Application of IAT”.
