A heartwarming tale of two sisters vowing that nothing but death will separate them, despite the slavery threatening to tear them apart.

America Opera Projects presents “Harriet Tubman: When I Crossed That Line to Freedom,” by Nkeiru Okoye. Albany will receive a sneak preview of this new folk opera, with support from the National Endowment for the Arts. The performance features singers, The SUNY Albany Music Department String Quintet and a narration by Okoye. A conversation with the artists will follow. Directed by Beth Greenberg, conducted by Damien Sneed Friday, March 8th 2013, 7 p.m.

Recital Hall, Performing Arts Center
Tickets: $5 students | $20 general for more information, visit www.albany.edu/harriet_tubman