FOLLOW me as we explore the command and control software used by Bot Masters, analyze the tools used by the shadiest characters in the underground, and uncover data being stolen by bots from their unsuspecting victims. We'll dive into the source code and dissect the individual components of a real botnet command and control server. We'll also take a detailed look at what types of data the bots are after and how the bot gets the stolen data back to its master. All the software is real and all the data is genuine. You'll get to see the actual control consoles used by Bot Masters as they control an army of bots and learn to find these servers on the Internet.
