Academic and Language Support Programs
Spring 2018

You have been admitted to the University at Albany because you have excellent educational qualifications and adequate English language scores to study here. Nevertheless, many students find that their English is not fully adequate for the University setting, and have difficulty with writing assignments or oral presentations. It is important that you build a strong base for your University studies and we strongly encourage international students to take the appropriate course listed below.

Courses for Academic Preparation

Intensive English Language Classes
Graduate and Undergraduate students may supplement their University enrollment by taking classes in the University at Albany Intensive English Language Program. These 8 weeks courses are available throughout the year. Subjects such as Conversation Skills, Grammar, English for Engineering, Business English and Academic Vocabulary are available. Please email IELP@albany.edu for additional information.

Courses for Undergraduate Credit

UUNI 100U (3 credits): The Freshman Year Experience for International Students
This 3 credit course focuses on the development of writing and oral presentation skills. It is focused on the needs of international students at the University level. This course is taught by Prof. Amy Feldman. It will be held on Monday and Wednesday, 4:15pm to 5:45pm. Class # for registration is 7809.

UUNI 110 (3 credits): Writing and Critical Inquiry
Undergraduate students must take this course in order to graduate. It is an introduction to college-level critical inquiry with a focus on the practice of writing. The course emphasizes intensive practice in academic writing, as well as writing in other contexts. Students complete various projects to deepen their understanding of writing as a vehicle for inquiry. Students will enhance their ability to produce clear and effective prose for different audiences and purposes and in different media. The following sessions are reserved for international students:

- Tuesday and Thursday, 10:15am to 11:35am, Prof. Titcha Ho (Class # 7122)
