Introduction to Literary Methods

This is an intro to different approaches to literary analysis to understand and become familiar with Hispanic literature. The course offers a critical introduction to a number of literary genres (poems, plays, short stories and novels) and popular culture (films, songs, cartoons), with a strong emphasis on analytical reading methods.

Discussion of literary texts will be a significant component of this course so that students will be able to gain insight into the nuances of a literary text and develop a critical voice of their own.
