ARABIC

AARA 101  Elementary Arabic I  (3)
  General Education: LANG
  Instructor: S. Benantar, sbenantar@albany.edu
  The objective of this course is the development of initial reading, listening, speaking, and writing skills in Modern Standard Arabic. Attention will be given to the mastering of the Arabic alphabet, pronunciation, basic grammatical structures, and initial vocabulary. Cultural elements from different Arabic speaking areas will also be introduced. Students are expected to attend regularly and participate in all class activities.

AARA 102  Elementary Arabic II  (3)
  General Education: LANG
  Instructors: S. Benantar, sbenantar@albany.edu
  A continuation of AARA 101. Additional Arabic grammatical structures and vocabulary items will be introduced to continue the development of the four communicative skills and cultural knowledge. The focus will be on syntax and morphology and the development of the ability to participate in different types of conversations. Modern Standard Arabic will be the language of instruction. Students are expected to attend regularly and participate in all class activities. Prerequisite: AARA 101 or placement.
AARA 202  Intermediate Arabic II  (3)
   Instructor: S. Benantar, sbenantar@albany.edu
   A continuation of AARA 201 which furthers the development of communicative competence in Modern Standard Arabic. Students will continue to acquire skills that allow them to understand a wide range of material in Arabic including written texts and audiovisual material and become more proficient in expressing their opinions accurately in Modern Standard Arabic. At the end of the course, they will be able to understand and distinguish different linguistic patterns and cultural expressions. Modern Standard Arabic will be the language of instruction. Students are expected to attend regularly and participate in all class activities. Prerequisite: AARA 201 or placement.

FRENCH

AFRE 101  Beginning French I  (4)
   General Education: LANG
   Instructor: Staff
   French 101 is for students with no previous study of French. This course emphasizes the development of practical communication skills through a variety of lively, interactive activities. By the end of the course, students should be able to talk about themselves, their immediate world, and their interests. The course also provides an introduction to the culture of France and other French-speaking countries. According to the University regulations, this course may not be taken for credit by students who have taken three years of high school French or passed the Regents examination within the past five years. Textbook: Chez nous, 4th edition
   Prerequisites: for beginners, none; intended for students with no prior study of French. Students with prior study of French wishing to enroll in this course should make an appointment with Professor Cynthia Fox (Humanities 221)

AFRE 102  Beginning French II  (4)
   General Education: LANG
   Instructor: Staff
   French 102 is for students who have completed one semester of college French, such as 101, or one year of high school French. This course continues to emphasize the development of practical communication skills using a lively and interactive approach. Students expand their proficiency to be able to talk not only about themselves, but about the world. Students also increase their knowledge of French and francophone cultures. By the end of the course, students should have basic survival skills in French. Textbook: Chez nous, 4th edition.
   Prerequisite: AFRE 101 or the equivalent.

AFRE 201  Introduction to French History and Culture  (3)
   General Education: DP-HUM:INTLPER
   Instructor: K. Keegan, PhD, kkeegan@albany.edu
   TAUGHT IN ENGLISH. This course will offer a general introduction to French history and culture from the Middle Ages through the 20th century. Focus will be on historical figures and events, as well as literature and art for each period studied. We will also watch a variety of films throughout the course that offer the student a deeper understanding of the topics under consideration.
AFRE 221Y  Intermediate French I (4)
  General Education: OD
  Instructor: Staff
TAUGHT IN FRENCH. This four credit course uses short-subject dramatic films, cultural readings and literary texts as well as opportunities for both face-to-face and on-line interactions with native speakers to provide a substantial review of the basics while expanding students’ knowledge of French vocabulary, structure, and functions. Students learn to express themselves in a more varied and meaningful way, while building their skills in listening comprehension and in cultural awareness. Text: Rêvez, Le français sans frontiers (Mitschke).
Prerequisite: AFRE 102 or permission of the instructor.

AFRE 222Y  Intermediate French II (4)
  General Education: OD
  Instructor: V. Martin, PhD, martinv49@gmail.com
TAUGHT IN FRENCH. This 4 credit course uses a film-based approach to build on students’ previous knowledge of French vocabulary and structures and to expand and refine their ability to express themselves both orally and in writing. Through the study of five contemporary feature-length films, students explore a variety of cultural themes while increasing their ability to comprehend spoken French used in context by native speakers. Text: Séquences, 3rd edition, textbook and workbook. (Bissière and Degroult). Prerequisite:  AFRE 221 or permission of the instructor.

AFRE 270Y  Beginning French for Business (3)
  Instructor: V. Martin, PhD, martinv49@gmail.com
In this course students learn and practice how to communicate in a French business environment. Successful students will acquire greater fluency, mastery of business vocabulary, knowledge of fundamental work-related cultural differences and familiarity with basic practices for doing business in France. The course includes an online exchange with native French speakers from the Université de Haute-Alsace in France and prepares students to take the DFP A2 (Diplôme de français professionnel-niveau A2), sponsored by the Paris Chamber of Commerce and Industry. Students who pass this fee-based test earn a diploma that attests to their functional command of both oral and written French. The diploma is widely recognized in the French business community and has the potential to enhance the professional credentials of students looking to work in an international context. Prerequisite: AFRE 221 Intermediate French I (or the equivalent with permission of the instructor).

AFRE 306  Composition & Pronunciation (3)
  Instructor: C. Fox, PhD, cfox@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN FRENCH: AFRE 306 is designed for non-native speakers of French who want to improve their listening and speaking skills. The aim of this course is to improve your ability to communicate in face-to-face interactions with native French speakers. This involves first and foremost being able to understand the language when you hear it spoken by a wide variety of native speakers, and then to be able to make yourself understood in conversing with them. We will also work on helping you to eliminate pronunciations that are not perfectly comprehensible, or that immediately mark you as a foreigner when you use them. In order to achieve these useful, practical outcomes, you will be introduced to some linguistic theory—how French sounds are formed, how they combine into a patterned system, and how they differ from English sounds. We’ll also examine some findings from sociolinguistic research that will help us understand how and why French may be spoken differently by different speakers, and how French speakers feel about differences in the way French can be pronounced. We will make extensive use of online resources. Prerequisite: Students should have completed, at a minimum, AFRE 222 or the equivalent (i.e. four semesters of French at the college level).
LLC COURSE DESCRIPTIONS: Spring 2017

AFRE 315 Introduction to French Cinema (3)
Instructor: S. Blood, PhD, sblood@albany.edu

GERMAN

AGER 102 Elementary German II (4)
General Education: LANG
Instructor: U. Giguere, PhD, ugiguere@albany.edu

Continuation of course AGER 101. The course builds upon already existing language skills in listening, speaking, reading and writing German for communication, and develops them further. Culturally relevant course materials serve to enhance the students' cultural competencies. Multi-media components and computer resources (i.e. online interactive audio and video activities; internet based tasks; feature films; email communication; web logs etc.), complement work with the required textbook Wie Geht's by Sevin/Sevin (Tompson/Heinle, 2007). Prerequisite: AGER 101, or at least 3 years of high school German or placement by instructor.

AGER 202 Intermediate German II (3)
Instructor: U. Giguere, PhD, ugiguere@albany.edu

This course is designed to refine students' oral and written communication skills in German acquired in the beginning German classes and German 201. Intercultural competence is strengthened through reading and discussing a variety of cultural issues revolving around a city or region in the German-speaking world. The four-skills instruction approach integrates a contextualized grammar-review. Multi-media components and computer resources (i.e. online interactive audio- and video activities; internet based tasks; feature films; email communication; weblogs), complement work with the required textbook Stationen: Ein Kursbuch für die Mittelstufe by Augustyn/Euba (Tompson/Heinle, 2nd ed.). Grades are based on independent home study, completion of assignments, regular attendance, and enthusiastic student participation. Prerequisites: AGER 201 or at least 4 years of high school German or placement by instructor.

TAUGHT IN SPANISH. Primary emphasis on the active skill of speaking. Cannot be taken by heritage or native speakers. Prerequisite: ASPN 201 (formerly ASPN 104) or placement.

ASPN 208 (formerly ASPN 301) Spanish Composition & Conversation for Non-Heritage Speakers of Spanish (3)
Instructor: Staff
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. Formerly ASPN 301. Intensive study of the Spanish language with frequent short compositions, oral presentations, and video projects. Also includes some short readings and analysis and discussion of literary texts. This course is only for non-heritage speakers of Spanish; students with a heritage speaker background should enroll in ASPN 209. Only one of ASPN 208, 209, and 301 may be taken for credit. Prerequisite: ASPN 206 or permission of instructor.

ASPN 209 Spanish Conversation & Composition for Heritage Speakers of Spanish (3)
Instructor: L. Correa, ABD, jlcrorea@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. Intensive study of the Spanish language with frequent short compositions and oral presentations. Also includes some short readings and class discussions of topics of special interest to heritage speakers of Spanish. This course is only for heritage speakers of Spanish, intended to meet their specific language needs; non-heritage speakers should enroll in ASPN 208. Only one of ASPN 208, 209, and 301 may be taken for credit. Prerequisite: ASPN 205 or permission of instructor.

ASPN 302 Advanced Spanish Grammar (3)
Instructor: E. Lansing, PhD, elansing@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. ASPN 302 es un curso avanzado que ofrece un repaso exhaustivo de la gramática española con especial atención a los puntos de alta frecuencia y de dificultad notable para los angloparlantes (los tiempos verbales, los pronombres, las preposiciones, etc.). Habrá discusiones para contrastar estas estructuras con aquellas en la lengua inglesa y los alumnos tendrán que realizar y entregar ejercicios escritos con regularidad. Prerequisite: ASPN 205 or 206, or placement.

ASPN 303 (formerly ASPN 496) Introduction to Spanish Linguistics (3)
Instructor: Staff
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. Why does the “b” in bata sound different than the “b” in haba? Does Juan viene mañana really mean the same thing as Mañana viene Juan? Exploring questions like these, this course offers a general introduction to Spanish linguistics with the aim of preparing students for more specialized study of specific linguistic areas in more advanced classes. We will examine the Spanish language at various levels such as that of the sound, the word, and the sentence. We will also delve into topics such as differences between dialects of Spanish and between different groups of speakers as well as how Spanish is acquired as a second or foreign language. Prerequisite: ASPN 208 or 209 or 301, or consent of instructor.
ASPN 310 (formerly ASPN 223)  Introduction to Literary Methods  (3)
General Education: DP-HUM
Instructor:  M. A. Aguilar, PhD, maguilardornelles@albany.edu
This is a beginning literature course where students are introduced to the study of Hispanic literature. The course offers a critical introduction to a number of literary genres (poems, plays, short stories and novels) and popular culture (songs, cartoons), with a strong emphasis on analytical reading methods. Literary pieces will be examine by genre, thus highlighting some of the issues and assumptions that underlie literary studies at this level, as well as the practical aspects of literary analysis. Discussion of literary texts will be a significant component of this course so that students will be able to gain insight into the nuances of a literary text and develop a critical voice of their own.

ASPN 310 (formerly ASPN 223)  Introduction to Literary Methods  (3)
General Education: DP-HUM
Instructor:  L. Cuesta, PhD, lcuesta@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. This is a beginning literature course where students are introduced to the study of Hispanic literature in the context of the main trends in twentieth-century literary theory. This course aims to give a coherent understanding of various theoretical and critical tools used to interpret texts by introducing them to strategies of close reading and to larger discussions regarding textual analysis. Offering a critical introduction to a number of literary genres, we will read primary texts (poems, plays, short stories and novels) and secondary works representing a range of critical and theoretical approaches. Content includes terminology and methods for literary analysis coupled with discussions on social, intellectual, and historical influences of literary forms, so that students will be able to gain insight into the nuances of a literary text and develop a critical voice of their own. Prerequisite: ASPN 208 or 209 or 301, or permission of Instructor

ASPN 319  20th Century Spanish Literature  (3)
Instructor:  L. Cuesta, PhD, lcuesta@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. In this class, we will read, contextualize and discuss short stories, novels, plays and poems to trace the evolution of literary movements in Spain from the beginning of the 20th Century to today. The specific characteristics of each literary trend will be analyzed and situated within the context of Spanish culture as well as political and social manifestations. Topics range from the Spanish avant-gardes in the 1920s to the postmodern writers of the early 21st Century. Taking into account the historical significance of the Spanish Civil War (1936-39), the course analyzes chronologically the deep transformations produced during Franco’s dictatorship and in the new democratic Spain and its literary and cultural expressions. Prerequisite: ASPN 223 or ASPN 310.

ASPN 322 (=A LCS 302)  Los Latinos en Estados Unidos  (3)
Instructor: Carmen Serrano, PhD, cserrano4@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. In this course we examine major US Latino groups (Mexican-American, Cuban, Puerto Rican, Dominican) and the major literary works produced by U.S. Latino writers from the 1960s to the present. Students will study demographic, socio-economic, historical, and cultural aspects of these groups in the context of their interaction with mainstream society. Course will be given in Spanish. Only one version of ASPN 322 may be taken for credit. Prerequisite(s): ASPN 223 or ASPN 310 or permission of instructor.

ASPN 401  Spanish Phonetics and Phonology  (3)
Instructor: M. Solon, PhD, msolon@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. Sounds are the foundation and building blocks of human language. This course takes an in-depth look at the sound system of the Spanish language. Students will explore the phonetics (the sounds) and phonology (the system/organization of those sounds) of Spanish, will learn about different sound patterns and processes (for example, why and how sounds and words in Spanish link together and influence each other during speech), will examine dialectal differences and differences between English and Spanish, and will gain hands-on lab experience analyzing the acoustics (like the sound wave pictured below) of their own and others’ speech in Spanish. Course culminates with proposal of an original research project. Prerequisite(s): ASPN 208 or 209 or 301, or placement. Note: Capstone course.

ASPN 402  Spanish Linguistics: Morphology and Syntax  (3)
Instructor: M. Westmoreland, PhD, mwestmoreland@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. El propósito principal de aspn 402/502 es la presentación y comprensión de conceptos lingüísticos generales y métodos asociados con la descripción y análisis morfosintáctico del español. Habrá un repaso de la gramática española, discusiones sobre la eficacia de diferentes explicaciones del empleo y distribución de formas, e información sobre la variación diatópica y diastrática. Texto requerido: Sintaxis y morfología de la lengua española, Kathleen Wheatley.

ASPN 409  Spanish for Community Engagement  (3)
Instructor: M. Solon, PhD, msolon@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. This service-learning course combines reading and coursework on Spanish language and linguistics with work and service in the community to provide students with the opportunity to apply course concepts and knowledge to a real-world project that serves the needs of a community organization. Each student will be paired with a service organization and will complete 25 hours of service during the course of the semester. Additionally, course work will involve reflecting on the relationship between this service and the student’s learning/knowledge of Spanish. Note: THIS IS A BLENDED COURSE; IT MEETS FACE-TO-FACE NINE TIMES WITH OTHER COURSEWORK COMPLETED ONLINE.

ASPN 442  Topics in the Spanish Language  (3)
Instructor: L. Sayahi, PhD, lsayahi@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. Selected topics in Spanish language not covered by other undergraduate courses offered by the program. May be repeated for credit when content varies. Consult current schedule of classes for topic. Prerequisite(s): ASPN 303 or ASPN 496 or permission of instructor.

ASPN 446  Freedom and Justice in the Hispanic World: Literature and Human Rights  (3)
Instructor: A. Aguilar, PhD, @albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. A study of selected works of Spanish and Spanish-American literature dealing with topics in human rights, civil liberties, and freedom of expression throughout the long history of the Spanish-speaking world. Discussions will be focused on slave trafficking and the Black Atlantic, literary censorship, women’s writing, social protest against dictatorships, transnational migrations, and literature of exile. Readings may include, among others, a novel by Nobel Prize Winner Mario Vargas Llosa and short stories by Luisa Valenzuela. Additionally, we will work on examples of folk music, visual arts, and films from Mexico, Colombia, and Ecuador. Only one version of ASPN 446 may be taken for credit. Prerequisite(s): two courses between ASPN 310-350 (excluding ASPN 333) or permission of instructor.

ASPN 462  The Fantastic and Otherworldly in Latin American Literature  (3)
Instructor: C. Serrano, PhD, cserrano4@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. This course will examine the literary supernatural in twentieth-century Latin American narratives: the Fantastic, Magical Realism, the Gothic, and lo real maravilloso. Students analyze Latin American short stories, novels, and films featuring doubles, vampires, and zombies. Prerequisite(s): two courses between ASPN 310-350 (excluding ASPN 333) or permission of instructor.
SPANISH GRADUATE COURSES

ASPN 501  Varieties of Contemporary Spanish Phonetics and Phonology  (3)
   Instructor: M. Solon, PhD, msolon@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. This course takes an in-depth look at the sound system of the Spanish language and examines regional and sociolinguistic variation of Spanish throughout the Spanish-speaking world at the phonetic and phonological levels. Students will gain hands-on lab experience gathering data and analyzing the acoustics of Spanish speech production. Course culminates with realization of an original research project.

ASPN 516  The Fantastic and Otherworldly in Latin American Literature  (3)
   Instructor: C. Serrano, PhD, cserrano4@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. This course will examine the literary supernatural in twentieth-century Latin American narratives: the Fantastic, Magical Realism, the Gothic, and lo real maravilloso. Students analyze Latin American short stories, novels, and films featuring doubles, vampires, and zombies. Prerequisite(s): two courses between ASPN 310-350 (excluding ASPN 333) or permission of instructor.

ASPN 562  Freedom and Justice in the Hispanic World: Literature and Human Rights  (3)
   Instructor: A. Aguilar, PhD, maguilardornelles@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. A study of selected works of Spanish and Spanish-American literature dealing with topics in human rights, civil liberties, and freedom of expression throughout the long history of the Spanish-speaking world. Discussions will be focused on slave trafficking and the Black Atlantic, literary censorship, women’s writing, social protest against dictatorships, transnational migrations, and literature of exile. Readings may include, among others, a novel by Nobel Prize Winner Mario Vargas Llosa and short stories by Luisa Valenzuela. Additionally, we will work on examples of folk music, visual arts, and films from Mexico, Colombia, and Ecuador. Only one version of ASPN 446 may be taken for credit. Prerequisite(s): two courses between ASPN 310-350 (excluding ASPN 333) or permission of instructor.
