UNDERGRADUATE COURSES

FRENCH

A FRE 101  Beginning French I   (4)
   General Education: LANG
   Instructor:  Staff
French 101 is for students with no previous study of French.  This course emphasizes the development of practical communication skills through a variety of lively, interactive activities. By the end of the course, students should be able to talk about themselves, their immediate world, and their interests. The course also provides an introduction to the culture of French and other French-speaking countries. According to the University regulations, this course may not be taken for credit by students who have taken three years of high school French or passed the Regents examination within the past five years.  Textbook: Chez nous, 4th edition
Prerequisites: for beginners, none; intended for students with no prior study of French or placed by examination.

A FRE 102  Beginning French II   (4)
   General Education: LANG
   Instructor:  Staff
French 102 is for students who have completed one semester of college French, such as 101, or one year of high school French.  This course continues to emphasize the development of practical communication skills using a lively and interactive approach.  Students expand their proficiency to be able to talk not only about themselves, but about the world.  Students also increase their knowledge of French and francophone cultures. By the end of the course, students should have basic survival skills in French.  Textbook: Chez nous, 4th edition.  Prerequisite: AFRE 101 or placement by examination.
A FRE 201  Arab Women Filmmakers  (3)
General Education: DP-HUM:INTLPER
Instructor:  S. Blood, PhD, sblood@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN ENGLISH. Since the late 1970's when Algerian novelist Assia Djebar made her pioneering film, "The Nuba of the Women of Mount Chenoua," women from francophone Arab nations have turned to filmmaking in increasing numbers. In cultures where women's public visibility is a continuing point of contention and in an industry that is male-dominated, the fact that so many women are creating films of high quality is remarkable. We will study a dozen or so contemporary films representing a variety of countries and genres. Textbook: Florence Martin, Screens and Veils: Maghrebi Women's Cinema (2011).

A FRE 221Y  Intermediate French I  (4)
General Education: OD
Instructor:  Staff
TAUGHT IN FRENCH. For students who have completed one year of introductory college French (such as 101-102) or two years of high school French. This course provides a substantial review of the basics while expanding students’ knowledge of vocabulary, structure, and functions to allow them to express themselves in a more varied and meaningful way, both orally and in writing. As in the previous levels, students have plenty of opportunity for interaction in class. Culture is explored in greater depths than in preceding levels. Reading takes on a larger role in this course as students read a variety of short texts. Texts: Chez nous, 4th edition; other works to be announced by the instructor. Prerequisite: AFRE 102 or permission of instructor.

A FRE 222Y  Intermediate French II  (4)
General Education: OD
Instructor:  V. Martin, PhD, vmartin49@gmail.com
TAUGHT IN FRENCH. For students who have completed AFRE 221, three semesters of college French, or three years of high school French. Continuing with a functional and thematic approach to building proficiency and a lively, interactive approach to learning, this course builds on students’ previous knowledge to expand and refine their ability to express themselves, both orally and in writing. Culture continues to play a central role, as does reading. Students read a variety of short texts. By the end of AFRE 222, students should be able to express themselves and read with reasonable fluency on a variety of topics. Texts: Controverses, Manuel et Cahier, 2nd edition (Oukada, Bertrand, and Solberg). Prerequisite: AFRE 221Y or permission of instructor.
A FRE 301  Structural Review of French  (3)
Instructor:  C. Fox, PhD, cfox@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN FRENCH. Students begin advanced course work in the French language. Builds on intermediate sequence communicative approach, increasing emphasis on writing skill. Students who have completed four years of high school level French or its equivalent may enroll in this course. Text: Controverses, Manuel et Cahier, 2nd edition (Oukada, Bertrand, and Solberg). Prerequisite: Grade of C or higher in A FRE 222Y or placement.

A FRE 341  Intro to Global French  (3)
Instructor:  S. Blood, PhD, sblood@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN FRENCH. This course introduces students to the fields of linguistics, culture, and literature in France, the Caribbean, Quebec, and/or Africa. Includes units on fiction, film, music, and art. Students are taught research and analysis techniques that are required in all upper-level courses in the French Studies Program. Required for the French minor. Only one version AFRE 341 may be taken for credit. Prerequisite: AFRE 301 or permission of instructor.

A FRE 350  French Conversation  (3)
Instructor:  V. Martin, PhD, martin49@gmail.com
TAUGHT IN FRENCH. This course provides and intensive practice in French conversation and focusses on developing listening and communication skills. Students will learn the strategies, vocabulary, and structures that will allow them to participate more fluently and confidently in a variety of spoken contexts. Some of the conversational functions and strategies covered include reporting, giving advice, conducting interviews and expressing differences of opinion. Students will have the opportunity to discuss francophone news and current events. They will engage in debates in class and take part in online web-casting sessions with a class of university students in France. This course is not for students whose native language is French. Prerequisite: A FRE 301 or FRE 222 with permission of instructor.

   Instructor: L. Cuesta, PhD, lcuesta@albany.edu
   TAUGHT IN SPANISH. Survey of Spanish literature from the beginning of the 18th century to the Generation of ‘98. Prerequisite: A SPN 310.
A SPN 325  Hispanic Short Story  (3)
Instructor: M.A. Aguilar, PhD, maguilardornelles@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. In this course we will explore what makes Spanish America unique by reading short stories that are compelling and exciting. Spanish American short stories are deeply embedded in literary and cultural traditions that also reflect on daily experiences and provide creative spaces for imagining social change. Students in this course will read Spanish American short fiction from the early twentieth century through the present, focusing on texts that deal with topics such as diaspora and migration, political violence, transnational identities, diversity and social change. Among the various authors studied are Horacio Quiroga, Jorge Luis Borges, Julio Cortázar, Rosario Ferré, Luisa Valenzuela, Roberto Bolaño, Leonardo Padura, and Junot Díaz. Prerequisite: A SPN 310.

A SPN 403  Spanish for Teachers  (3)
Instructor: M. Solon, PhD, msolon@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. This course is an in-depth study of principles and methods of language teaching. It includes the hands-on practice of methodological tools that enrich the teaching of Spanish as a foreign language as well as a review of Spanish grammar with the needs of the beginning teacher in mind. Prerequisite: A SPN 208/209 or placement.

A SPN 408  Spanish 2nd Language Acquisition  (3)
Instructor: M. Solon, PhD, msolon@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. This course examines the central questions, research methods, and empirical findings of the study of the acquisition of Spanish as a second/foreign/additional language. The first part of this course explores fundamental concepts in the field of second language acquisition and follows the development of the field from early theories through contemporary manners of studying and thinking about learner language. The second part of the course examines contemporary research on the acquisition of Spanish as a second language. Students will also examine and analyze samples of learner production using methods and tools common to the field and will study structures of various types that present difficulties to learners of Spanish as a second language. Prerequisite: A SPN 208/209 or permission of instructor.
A SPN 414  Literature of the Hispanic Caribbean (3)
    Instructor: M.A. Aguilar, PhD, maguilardornelles@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN SPANISH. A survey of selected writers from Cuba, the Dominican Republic, and Puerto Rico, from late nineteenth century up until today. Throughout the course we will discuss different aspects of the fascinating as well as complex Caribbean world through a wide array of works of fiction, poetry, essays, drama, music, and film. Among the various authors studied will be Alejo Carpentier, Nancy Morejón, Marilyn Bobes, Julia Álvarez, Tato Laviera, Mayra Santos Febres, Junot Díaz, and Leonardo Padura. Prerequisite: A SPN 310.

A SPN 462  Fantastic Otherworld: Apparitions and the Haunted in Latin American Literature (3)
    Instructor: C. Serrano, PhD, cserrano4@albany.edu

UNDERGRADUATE COURSES

RUSSIAN

A RUS 101  Elementary Russian I  (3)

General Education: LANG
Instructor: T. Sergay, PhD, tsergay@albany.edu

This course for beginners in Russian follows the “four-skills” communicative approach taken in its textbook, GOLOSA: A Basic Course in Russian, Book 1, Fifth Edition. Students will develop basic skills in listening, speaking, reading, and writing while mastering the grammatical structures and concepts on which those skills depend. Speaking skills include continuous attention to phonetics and intonation. Our textbook system focuses on practical survival and social functioning in today’s Russian-speaking world as well as aspects of Russian culture, society and history. Over four semesters (A RUS 101, 102, 201, and 202), students will learn to handle simple, highly typical exchanges about daily routines, family, school, and work; everyday speech etiquette; understanding signs and public notices, brief news items, weather forecasts and advertisements; and writing simple, autobiographical letters. The course makes extensive use of Pearson’s MyRussianLab, an online electronic language lab and learning system that takes the place of Blackboard.
Native speakers of Russian and “heritage” speakers who have already achieved intermediate oral proficiency or higher by the ACTFL scale may not take this course. It is not an appropriate course for speakers of Russian interested in improving their higher-level grammar and writing skills.
Prerequisite: ARUS 101 or equivalent, or permission of instructor.

A RUS 201  Elementary Russian I  (3)

Instructor: L. Sullivan, MA, lsullivan@albany.edu

TAUGHT IN RUSSIAN. This course follows the “four-skills” communicative approach taken in its textbook, GOLOSA: A Basic Course in Russian, Book 1, Fifth Edition. Students further develop their basic skills in listening, speaking, reading, and writing while mastering more and more completely and actively the grammatical structures and concepts on which those skills depend. Students of ARUS 201 and 202 solidify their mastery of the Russian case system and begin mastering aspect, which dominates the Russian verbal system. Speaking skills include continuous attention to phonetics and intonation. Our textbook system focuses on practical survival and social functioning in today’s Russian-speaking world.

The course makes extensive use of Pearson’s MyRussianLab, an online electronic language lab and learning system that takes the place of Blackboard. Native speakers of Russian and “heritage” speakers who have already achieved intermediate oral proficiency or higher by the ACTFL scale may not take this course. It is not an appropriate course for speakers of Russian interested in improving their higher-level grammar and writing skills. Prerequisites: A RUS 102 or equivalent.

A RUS 252 Masterpieces of Twentieth-Century Russian Literature (3)
General Education: HU
Instructor: T Sergay, PhD, tsergay@albany.edu
TAUGHT IN ENGLISH. Survey of the development of Russian literature, particularly prose fiction, from about the turn of the century to the death of Stalin (1953). Readings will be chosen from the stories, dramas, and novels of such writers as Chekhov, Gorky, Olesha, Bulgakov, Babel, Pasternak, Zamyatin, and others. No prerequisites. This course does not presume prior knowledge of Russian language or literature. The format for class sessions is a workshop or seminar in which we will discuss each book together. These discussions will focus on immanent (“textual”) matters of content, style, characterization, and narrative technique, but will also refer to social, political, religious, aesthetic and philosophical contexts. Since all readings are in English translations, an important secondary concern will be the special problems of understanding literature (“reception”) posed by translation itself.

ARABIC

A ARA 101  Elementary Arabic I  (3)
      General Education: LANG
      Instructor:  S. Benantar
      The objective of this course is the development of initial reading, listening, speaking, and writing skills in Modern Standard Arabic. Attention will be given to the mastering of the Arabic alphabet, pronunciation, basic grammatical structures, and initial vocabulary. Cultural elements from different Arabic speaking areas will also be introduced. Students are expected to attend regularly and participate in all class activities. Classes meet four times per week.

A ARA 201  Intermediate Arabic I  (3)
      General Education: LANG
      Instructor:  S. Benantar
      The objective of this course is to continue the development of the communicative skills (speaking, listening, writing, and reading) in Modern Standard Arabic with strong emphasis on the cultural context. The course will improve the students’ ability to process different types of material in Arabic and acquire additional grammatical structures and vocabulary. Modern Standard Arabic is the language of instruction. Students are expected to attend regularly and participate in all class activities. Classes meet four times per week. Prerequisite(s): A ARA 102 or placement.
A GER 101  Elementary German I  (4)
   General Education: LANG
   Instructor: U. Giguere, PhD
Beginner course for students with no previous German, designed to build up basic language skills in listening, speaking, reading and writing German for communication, while at the same time heightening intercultural competencies. A strong component of multi-media resources (i.e. online interactive audio- and video activities; internet based tasks; feature films; weblogs etc.), complements work with the required textbook and workbook Wie Geht's by Sevin/Sevin (Tompson/Heinle, 2007). Grades are based on independent home study, completion of assignments, regular attendance, and enthusiastic student participation.

A GER 201  Intermediate German I  (3)
   Instructor: U. Giguere, PhD
This course is designed to refine students' oral and written communication skills in German acquired in the Elementary language sequence. Intercultural competence is strengthened through reading and discussing a variety of cultural issues revolving around a city or region in the German-speaking world. The four-skills instruction approach integrates a contextualized grammar-review. Multi-media components and computer resources (i.e. online interactive audio- and video activities; internet based tasks; feature films; email communication; weblogs), complement work with the required textbook Stationen: Ein Kursbuch für die Mittelstufe by Augustyn/Euba (Tompson/Heinle, 2008). Grades are based on independent home study, completion of assignments, regular attendance, and enthusiastic student participation. Prerequisite(s): A GER 101 and 102, or placement by instructor.
HEBREW

A HEB 101  Elementary Hebrew I  (4)
   General Education: LANG
   Instructor: Staff
Objectives: Acquiring the Hebrew language while being able to function in it, using skills including reading, writing, speaking and comprehending. The methods used in this class will include a wide range of educational techniques including: written and oral exercises, dramatizations and simulations of typical life situations in America and Israel. Via our textbook, the students will be exposed to different elements of modern Israeli culture, while acquiring the tools for understanding it better. The objectives of this course are to develop an understanding of how the Hebrew language is structured, as well as gaining the confidence and skill in becoming proficient in its use.

A HEB 201  Intermediate Hebrew  (3)
   Instructor: Staff
   This course in Modern Hebrew is for students who have successfully completed the HEB 102 course, or demonstrate comparable proficiency. The class builds upon HEB 102 to provide opportunities for the review and development of spoken, written Hebrew, and the exposure to Israeli culture through reading material, and Israeli songs. There will be an emphasis placed on expanding grammar concepts that were introduced in the prior two semesters of Hebrew. Prerequisite(s): A HEB 102 or equivalent, or placement.

LATIN

A CLL 101  Elementary Latin I  (4)
General Education: LANG
Instructor: A. Commito, PhD, acommito@albany.edu
Salvē! Welcome! Some people speak of lingua Latina as a “dead” language. In Latin 101 you will learn it is very much alive and well in the modern world around you. This course will introduce you to the fundamentals of Classical Latin, including pronunciation, vocabulary, grammar, reading comprehension, and translation. Along the way, you will also gain knowledge of ancient Roman culture and daily life; improve your vocabulary and grammar skills in English and other languages; and learn to recognize how Latin remains important in our lives today. Weekly assignments, quizzes, and three exams will prepare you as a reader and writer of this ancient language. You will hone your translation skills by reading favorite myths of the ancient world. Completion of the course will satisfy the general education requirement for foreign language and fulfill the prerequisite for Latin 102.
