Professional Development Speaker Series:

A Conversation with Jaime Daley

Assistant Director of the New York State Office of Counter Terrorism (OCT)

The National Center for Security & Preparedness (NCSP) is proud to announce the commencement of its Professional Development Speaker Series. Through a series of discussions, the speaker series will bring together professionals from the first responder, emergency management, and homeland security communities to facilitate an open discussion and provide participants with the opportunity to gain a deeper understanding of relevant professions and policy issues. In an effort to bridge the gap between academia and practice the National Center for Security & Preparedness seeks to attract an audience that is interested in engaging with experts in a wide variety of fields.

For our first Professional Development Speaker Series, we will be having a Conversation with Jaime Daley. Mrs. Daley is the Assistant Director of the New York State Office of Counter Terrorism (OCT), part of the Division of Homeland Security and Emergency Services. Since 2005, Mrs. Daley has been an OCT liaison to the New York State Intelligence Center (NYSIC), working with federal, state and local partners on intelligence issues facing New York State. Mrs. Daley earned her bachelor’s degree from the College of Holy Cross and her Master of Public Administration (Homeland Security concentration) from the State University of New York at Albany.

Topics of discussion will include:

- The role & position as the Assistant Director of the Office of Counter Terrorism
- Understanding how OCT, NYSIC and the Fusion Center fit within the intelligence community
- Pathways to careers in intelligence
- How UAlbany prepared her for her current position
