This course will explore key theories and methods in the study of political violence with a specific focus on insurgency and terrorism. We will focus on the key why’s how’s and what’s in the study of terrorism and insurgency. The focus in the class is less on a specific geographic or substantive area then on learning to think conceptually and theoretically and how to produce analytical research. Each week we will read foundational works in the field and also discuss not only the findings but how they were found. This will be then applied to the ongoing research efforts students will be making in the class.

Objectives of the Course: By the end of the course students should have:

1. An understanding of the major questions and theories related to terrorism and insurgency.
2. Experience with using at least one of the traditional methods for analyzing comparative politics and an awareness of the other key methods.
3. Increased understanding of social science research through participation in a terrorism research project.
4. The opportunity to contribute through original work to research on terrorism or insurgency.

Course Requirements

Assignments

- 40% Participation
  - The course will be taught in a seminar fashion built around the class working jointly on research and exercises. This means that we will all be dependent on the efforts of others and participation will determine the success of the learning experience. Participation is more than attendance; it includes active and thoughtful participation in all elements of the class. Active and thoughtful participation is dependent on a thorough reading of the material as well as preparation for exercises to be conducted in class. In addition students are expected to prepare comments for each class starting in the third week.
    - Comments starting for third week of reading due the Friday before
    - Students are required to submit 2 comments or questions illustrating comprehension of the assigned material each week. Students can choose to submit 2 questions, 2 comments, or one of each. Each comment must come from a different assigned reading or media piece in order to count. Comments can focus on something you find interesting, surprising, disagree with, etc. Additionally, comments may “connect the dots” between assigned readings we will discuss during the semester. Importantly, the commentaries should not be summaries of the reading. Instead they should reflect your thoughts and analysis on the week’s topic and cases. For example, why do you find a particular topic interesting? How does the reading help you reflect on something in the news recently? How does the reading help you understand the topic more effectively? Is there something
Questions: Education is about learning. This class is about material you have probably not covered before in this context. If you have questions or things are unclear – ask questions. Ask them in lecture and feel free to call (if I am in my office at 10pm I will answer the phone) or email the instructor whenever to ask for further clarification. This includes any problems you might have about e-reserve or any other technical aspect of the course.

Accommodations: “Reasonable accommodations will be provided for students with documented physical, sensory, systemic, cognitive, learning and psychiatric disabilities. If you believe you have a disability requiring accommodation in this class, please notify the Director of Disabled Student Services (Campus Center 137, 442-5490). That office will provide the course instructor with verification of your disability, and will recommend appropriate accommodations (http://www.albany.edu/studentlife/dss/Accommodation.html).” If you wish to discuss academic accommodations for this course please also inform the instructor as soon as possible. In addition, the instructor will make every effort to accommodate difficulties arising from religious observance. You are asked to bring any possible conflicts to the instructor's attention as soon as possible. Students should not expect that, if they do poorly on an exam or other assignment, to claim, at that time, the need of an accommodation. This statement is to preclude that problem, and allow people with a need for accommodations to be treated fairly and appropriately.

Plagiarism: Please familiarize yourself with the description in the undergraduate bulletin http://www.albany.edu/undergraduate_bulletin/2003-2004/regulations.html if you are involved in plagiarism the penalty will be failure in the course and you will be reported to judicial affairs. In this one regard there are no second chances. If you are not sure if something violates standards – ask. If you are not sure whether to cite or not to cite – cite. Every Student is expected to go through the following tutorial http://library.albany.edu/usered/plagiarism/index.html

Office hours: Office hours are your opportunity to get personalized guidance for assignments as well as help better understanding the course material. Take advantage of it. If office hours are not at a good time for you then please email me your phone number and we will call you to set up a time that works in order to meet.

Ombudsperson: “A government official, especially in Scandinavian countries, who investigates citizens' complaints against the government or its functionaries (www.answers.com).” One student will be asked to volunteer to act as an ombudsperson and will meet with me on a regular basis to offer feedback from students in terms of the direction the course is going and bring to my attention any problems with reading, assignments or other material.
