Kate Cerulli, Ph.D. ‘04
Winner of the 2014 UAlbany Alumni Association Excellence in Public Service Award

Dr. Cerulli is an Associate Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Rochester and the Director of the Susan B Anthony Center for Women's Leadership. She has also served as the Director of the Laboratory of Interpersonal Violence and Victimization in the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry since 2002.

Dr. Cerulli has long been concerned about domestic violence and its consequences. More than two decades ago, she co-founded the Family Violence Clinic at Buffalo Law School, where she also has served as director of research and a clinic instructor, training legions of law students in the legal, social, and individual dynamics surrounding domestic violence and encouraging them to use their education to help make a difference. She has completed research projects and designed and implemented numerous programs and policy initiatives devoted to preventing domestic violence and providing support and services to victims and their children.

Dr. Cerulli has been the recipient of the New York State Bar Association’s Outstanding Young Lawyer Award, the Justice Award to End Domestic Violence from NYS Governor Pataki, and the National Institute of Mental Health New Investigator Award, among many other honors.
