In Search of Security

An international conference on policing and security

February 19-22, 2003
Hotel Wyndham, Montréal, Québec, Canada

This international conference will bring together the world’s leading experts on policing and security to examine the complex relationship between public and private police.

The program examines the provision of security from a variety of disciplines and, through both theoretical and empirical lenses.

Policing is in the process of transformation. This conference will address issues such as:
• the blurring of the boundary between public and private policing
• the division of labour between public and private agencies
• innovative frameworks for managing the relationship between policing agencies

If you are involved in social justice research, policy or practice and have an interest in security issues, you will benefit from this opportunity to hear from leading-edge researchers, learn about innovative management techniques, and network with policing professionals and scholars from around the world.

This conference is ideal for:

Researchers
Government policymakers
Community practitioners
Public police management and officers

NGOs
Business community
Legal professionals
Private security professionals

Contact the Law Commission of Canada for more information at:
(613) 946-8980 or via e-mail at policing@lcc.gc.ca
or visit our web site
www.lcc.gc.ca

YES. Please send me information about the Conference when it becomes available.

Name/Title: ________________________________________________________________
Organization: ______________________________________________________________
Address: ___________________________________________________________________
Postal Code: ______ Phone: ( )_______ Fax: ( )_______ E-mail: ___________________

Please FAX this form to (613) 946-8988. Thank you.