SEXUALITY EXHIBITS BY PROJECT SHAPE: SEXUAL HEALTH AND PEER EDUCATION PROGRAM
In its role as a peer education program focused on issues of sexual health, Project SHAPE members will host a series of exhibits in the Lecture Center Concourse from 10:00 AM to 3:00 PM, during Sexuality Month. The exhibits will include information, as well as handouts and brochures, on topics such as contraception, sexually transmitted infections, HIV/AIDS, and breast and testicular cancer.

MIDDLE EARTH EXHIBIT
Visit the Middle Earth exhibit in the Lecture Center Concourse from 10:00 AM to 3:00 PM during Sexuality Month and receive free information and giveaways.

ABOUT MIDDLE EARTH
The Middle Earth Peer Assistance Program is a campus service in which trained University at Albany undergraduate students offer hotline assistance, peer education, and peer career advisement under the supervision of professionals at Counseling and Psychological Services and, for Peer Career Advisors, Career and Professional Services. For additional information about Middle Earth, go to www.albany.edu/counseling_center.
ABOUT FRANK WARREN

PostSecret creator Frank Warren introduced the world to a collection of highly-personal and artfully-decorated postcards mailed anonymously from around the world, exposing the soulful secrets we never voice. What started as a community mail art project, quickly exploded in popularity; since PostSecret's inception in 2004, Warren has received over 1,000,000 anonymous secrets on homemade postcards.

Warren’s project has raised over $1,000,000 for suicide prevention and earned him the Mental Health Advocacy Lifetime Achievement Award in 2011 and an invitation to the White House to share his thoughts on mental wellness in 2013. PostSecret’s website is the most visited advertisement-free blog in the world and has won three Webby Awards for "Best Blog on the Internet". With over 2,500,000 views, his TED talk is one of the most watched in the popular series.

All six PostSecret books published have been featured on the New York Times bestselling list, with PostSecret Confessions on Life Death and God reaching number one. PostSecret postcards have been exhibited at the renowned Museum of Modern Art in New York and the Visionary Art Museum in Maryland, and there is an album and play based on the project.

In Warren's interactive multimedia event, "PostSecret Live," he engages audiences with inspiring and funny stories behind the secrets, discusses the blog and how it led him to make suicide awareness part of his life's work, and demonstrates that through our secret struggles and adversity, we can help others.

In 2005, The All American Rejects approached Warren about using images of actual PostSecret images in their Dirty Little Secret music video. They offered Warren $1,000 but instead he asked them to donate $2,000 to 1(800) SUICIDE where Warren is a volunteer. The donation was made and the music video became one of the most requested on MTV. Warren continues to receive between 100 and 200 postcards every day. He updates his website on Sundays and is working to produce four more PostSecret books. He continues to call himself an “accidental artist” because he has no artist background or training. “I have been asked many times why I started this. It still feels to me as though this project found me. All I try to do is make the right decisions every day to protect the integrity of the project – and learn to trust the journey.”
SEXUALITY IN THE PERFORMING ARTS

SERIES PRESENTED BY THE PERFORMING ARTS CENTER AND UNIVERSITY ART MUSEUM

VIDEO EXHIBITION: “PERFORMANCE DOCUMENTS”
February 2 through April 2 at University Art Museum - Free admission
Drawn from projects over the past five years, this rare exhibition of performance documentation charts the prevailing concerns around history, memory and the present tense of performance that have come to define Gerard & Kelly’s practice. Screened as a single-channel video projection, these “documents” underscore the artists’ inquiry into the relationships between performers and spectators, language and movement, intimacy and public space.

LECTURE: “IN TIME AND OUT OF SYNC”
Wednesday, February 3 at 7pm at University Art Museum - Free admission
In this performative lecture, the artists discuss recent projects and their engagement with legacies of feminism and queer theory in making time-based work.

WORKSHOP: “WITNESS THE PROCESS”
Thursday, February 4 from 9 am to noon at University Art Museum - Free admission
Observers are welcome to watch the artists as they conduct a workshop in which the score for their performance installation, Reusable Parts/Endless Love (2011), is transmitted to UAlbany students.

RECEPTION: “MEET THE ARTISTS”
Friday, February 12 from 5-7 pm at University Art Museum - Free admission
Gerard and Kelly will be on hand for an artist reception along with painter Keltie Ferris and photographers represented in Race, Love, Labor exhibitions which will also be on view in the museum.

PERFORMANCE: “REUSABLE PARTS/ENDLESS LOVE”
Friday, February 12 at 7 pm & 8:15 pm at Performing Arts Center

Admission:
Free tickets to the first 100 UAlbany students with Student ID
Advance Tickets: $15 general public
$10 students (after first 100), seniors & faculty-staff
Day of Show Tickets: $20 general public
$15 students (after first 100), seniors & faculty-staff

In this score-based, thought-provoking performance installation originally commissioned by Danspace Project at St. Mark’s Church, the performers transmit and transform the instructions for a kiss into a machine-like production of unscripted representations of intimacy. Doing away with fixed seating, the artists place the audience in a “catch-as-catch-can” interactive experience inviting them to roam freely to watch the action or stay out of its way.

SEXUALITY MONTH FEATURED EVENT
KELTIE FERRIS: PAINTINGS & BODY PRINTS
FEBRUARY 2 – APRIL 2, 2016, UNIVERSITY ART MUSEUM - FREE ADMISSION
Built up in layers of spray gun washes and palette knife zips, these fresh and original large-scale abstractions reference textiles, graffiti, and modernist painting through a pixilated haze of neon, dark night tones, and tempered pastels. The body prints are an extension of Ferris's layered approach to image-making. Whether she makes them clothed or naked, there is a performative element in the prints that captures the complexities of representing a queer body. "You see everything, but you don’t," according to Ferris, "that kind of controlled unfurling is queer."

SEXUALITY MONTH FEATURED PRESENTATION

OUR BODIES, OUR HISTORIES: COMING HOME TO OURSELVES - A BICENTENNIAL ANNIVERSARY TRIBUTE TO SARA BAARTMAN, THE "HOTTENTOT VENUS"

Two centuries ago, Sara Baartman, widely known as the "Hottentot Venus,” died thousands of miles away from her South African homeland in the city of Paris, where audiences reduced her to racial spectacle, sexual object, and scientific specimen. On her body arose such oppressive practices as racial stereotyping and profiling, scientific racism, and medical experimentation. It is from such painful history that this bicentennial homage and celebration seeks to memorialize and heal her body as well as the collective body of women, of people of African descent, and of all people whose bodies have been subjected to dehumanization. This event will include dance, theater, and musical performances from student groups UMOJA, Black Theatrical Productions, Serendipity, and Phenomenal Voices. A Roundtable Discussion will follow, including scholar Janell Hobson, poet Bettina Judd, filmmaker Natalie Bullock Brown, and artist Nona Faustine.

Organized by Janell Hobson, Undergraduate Director of Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, and the Gamma Mu chapter of Triota, the Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies Honor Society at the University at Albany, this event is also part of the Racial Justice 2015-2016 series - in collaboration with faculty members Annette Johnson in the School of Public Health and the Department of Africana Studies, and Donna Young in the Albany Law School - which is supported by the Office of Diversity and Inclusion, University Auxiliary Services, Triota Honor Society, the College of Arts and Sciences, the Departments of Africana Studies, Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies, History, Political Science, English, Latin American, Caribbean and U.S. Latino Studies, and Albany Law School.

IT’S 2016...DO I STILL HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT HIV?
The number of college students infected by HIV is between one in every 250 to 500 students in the United States. On a campus the size of UAlbany, we potentially might have between 35-69 students currently infected with HIV. Come and learn about the issues and participate in fun interactive activities and, at the same time, find out what you and other students can do to reduce the risks associated with HIV.
Presenter: Frank Dillon, Ph.D. Associate Professor  Gabrielle Groth, Doctoral Student
Department of Educational and Counseling Psychology, School of Education

9:00 PM – 10:15PM  Campus Center 375
LOCKER ROOM ETIQUETTE: LGBTQ PEOPLE AND ATHLETICS
LGBTQ people generally report that participating in athletics and being part of a team has had a positive impact on their high school and college experience. So why does athletics get such a bad rap when it comes to LGBTQ inclusion? Why is it such a big deal when professional athletes come out? In this program we will unpack the narratives around gender and sexuality in athletics that effect LGBTQ Athletes. Allies, international students, as well as students with friends and/or family who are LGBT are encouraged to attend.

SEXUALITY MONTH FEATURED PRESENTATION:

Like so many other species, we have to figure out how to date and mate successfully. As hard as that is, talking about it seems even more challenging. This is where other species can help. You just might find that discussing dancing prairie chickens, picky lionesses, or cheating swans makes the perfect segue into talking about some very common human problems. At the end of the day, whether it's the blue-footed booby, the adzuki bean beetle, or a slew of other species, animals have a lot to teach us about love and relationships. Join us to hear from best-selling author and behavioral scientist Jennifer Verdolin as she applies her knowledge of animal courtship and mating behaviors to human relationships. Her book on the subject, Wild Connections (2014), grows out of her same-titled blog for Psychology Today. Her work has appeared in National Geographic, The Smithsonian and on NPR.

Sponsored in conjunction with UAlbany’s Sexuality Month organized by the Middle Earth Peer Assistance Program of Counseling and Psychological Services. Co-sponsored by the Student Association, University Auxiliary Services, and the Office of Diversity and UAlbany’s Women in Science and Health Group.

COMING OUT MONOLOGUES
Coming out is different for everyone. What does it mean to come out? Why do we have to come out? These real stories about love, life, and the meaning of community, written by UAlbany faculty, staff, and students and performed by UAlbany students, can best be described as “social justice through theatre.” We invite you to join our student actors for a beautiful performance and a chance to stay after the show and discuss the stories you have heard in our talk back portion with the performers. Straight allies, international students, as well as students with friends and/or family who are LGBTQ are encouraged to attend.

RACISM, CLASSISM, SEXISM AND HETEROSEXUALITY: HAVE WE EVER REALLY TALKED ABOUT IT?
What is heterosexuality in the US? Where does it come from? How has it shaped our culture, our physical environment, and our institutions, and what does it mean to challenge these? Together we will explore how sexism, racism, classism, and heterosexism inform our social and physical world by disentangling our notions of the professional, the attractive, the male & female and the space left for anything else.

ABOUT SEXUALITY MONTH 2016

During the 33 years that Sexuality Month has been in existence at the University at Albany, college students across the nation have been faced with critical issues and choices. Concerns related to gender and sexuality, HIV/AIDS, relationships, identity, and reproductive health have remained at the forefront across time.

In recognition of the importance of the above issues for students, the content of programs within Sexuality Month reflects these key themes. In this way, we hope to meet the needs of our students as well as to provide a retrospective and prospective look at the issues.

All programs listed in this brochure will be presented or supervised by individuals with expertise in the topic area. We hope the information that will be presented will encourage learning, dialogue, and critical thinking, and will continue to move Middle Earth forward in its mission of prevention and the promotion of health.
