1	0.15%		9 times out of 10 the staff is extremely helpful and efficient. I'm not sure the name or position of this man who has helped me on Colonial (I'm pretty sure he's a manager, always around, usually in nicer dress clothes, on the taller side, a little bigger, goatee) but for a good week Colonial had only had hummus OR pita chips, not both (pointless). It was lunch time and I asked the man if there would be chips for the hummus by dinner time. He was surprised when he realize both weren't out. He immediately went to the kitchen to check for pita chips. When he realized there weren't any he told me he would have his staff run out to another quad and find pita chips. I told him not to worry about it because it wasn't a big deal but he insisted. In maybe 20 minutes if not less, there were pita chips for my hummus. I tell this story to all my friends because this man made my day. He is the hardest working "manager" (because I'm unsure of his position) I know. I always see him offering to put away people's plates when they're done. I used to live on Alumni and never saw this kind of commitment. In fact, I don't think I ever really saw a manager. This guy is around all the time and always makes sure things are running smoothly and in the correct fashion. He deserves a raise!
1	0.15%		A clean environment for me to eat and socialize with my friends.
1	0.15%		A lot of variety of foods
1	0.15%		A lot of variety. However, I can not always find what I want
1	0.15%		A majority of the workers are so friendly, I can point out who isn't, and who doesn't enjoy being at work.
1	0.15%		After 8 pm the dining hall basically serves scraps of what's left and it isn't even hot. I get out of class after 8 pm and still have to commute back to the quad. A hot healthy balanced meal would be lovely. They take the salad bar away, the pizza is stale because it has been sitting under the heat lamp for hours and the wraps are bland as heck. After being in class all day, sometimes I just want to enjoy a good meal. I understand that it's late and the workers do not want to be in the dining hall too late cleaning up, but if our classes get out late we cannot help that.
1	0.15%		all dining halls are unsatisfying
1	0.15%		All simple hers that work at simple servings are always kind, give what you need, explain what they are serving well and always happy to do it. I appreciate this very much!

It also seems far easier to settle for less healthy options with higher concentrations of saturated fat than it is to eat something with actual sustenance and that won't send me to the bathroom an ungodly amount of times throughout the day. Quite honestly, I find myself forcing food down for the calories, it is rare that I ever enjoy the food that is prepared on site, I arrive and leave the dining hall quite dissatisfied on a regular basis. Let's be honest, there are children starving in various areas of the world, so I often don't communicate my dissatisfaction, in interest of not sounding like a total bitch. However, I am quite sure that I will become insane trying to force down the slob that is passed off as food. Thank the lord I will be forced to live in a living space that has a kitchen next year.

1	0.13%	<input type="text"/>	As I live on Empire now with a kitchen, I don't go to the dining halls anymore. However my biggest complaint while I was still in the dorms was this: the dining halls need late night hours. Closing at 8 was incredibly inconvenient. In a campus environment where many clubs run past this time, it was often very difficult for me to plan my schedule around so that I could visit the dining hall for a brief time just to get some food in my stomach. If I missed it, I'd have to resort to some microwavable Mac and cheese in my room, which I think we can all agree is not really a meal. So ultimately, my biggest suggestion at solving this for the next generation of students is keeping it open later. I know other campuses do it, so we probably have the capacity to do it as well.
1	0.13%	<input type="text"/>	BE CLEANER. I received food poisoning and was sent to the hospital because of the dining hall. There was a hair in the food and I told a manager and he took it upon himself to stick his bare hand into the food to take the hair out. Every single dining hall I've been to has had an issue with cleanliness. On indian quad, a cook that was making hamburgers was behind the grill eating a burger and spit it out because it had something in it. I witnessed him go to his coworkers making fun of what was inside his burger. This is the nonsense that we as students pay for. Also, One week, I literally requested chicken patties and did not hear a word about it even to this day. This was two years ago.

Pretty much eating bread. i have to soak my shit in BBQ sauce to get some god damn flavor. It's a Blessing if there's good chicken/Fries. Pasta sucks. Pizza sucks. Cups are dirty. Everyone knows what kids love to eat and they don't serve it for no reason. Fix it please i pay for this shit and i barely use it because its so gross i want it fixed. no one is going to take this survey cause they're too lazy but im speaking for the thousands of students please fix the shit out of these dining halls not just dutch every single one. besides indian. that shits kinda nice.

All in all, the dinning halls at this school are AWFUL (if i could super bold, underline, and italicize that if i could) and the dinning halls are the main reason i tell all of my friends not to attend this school. I have never heard a good comment about the dinning halls from any students here. Everyone complains non-stop I dont see how you guys havent changes anything yet. Please change something please please please please please THE DINNING HALLS SHOUD BE YOURE NUMBER ONE PRIORITY DO NOT MESS THEM UP. KIDS NEED TO EAT AND BE HAPPY ABOUT EATING I SHOULDN'T LEAVE THE DINNING HALL CURSING YOU GUYS OUT EVERYDAY LIKE I DO!!!!!! I SPEND MORE MONEY ON EATING OUT AND BUYING VENDING MACHINE FOOD THEN I PAY FOR THE MEAL PLAN DO YOU UNDERSTNAD HOW RIDICULOUS THAT IS. 1	0.13%	<input type="text"/>	I'll be honest, I am very Unsatisfied with the quality of the food. I dread going to the dining hall to eat and most times do not have a good experience. The wrap line is always too long because the wrap station is understaffed and the food is of poor quality. It's just upsetting to pay such a large sum of money and only use 40 swipes a semester because I have no desire to force myself to eat cereal each day since nothing else is appetizing. Sodexo is not what you should be feeding student who's main source of food is the resident dining halls when Sodexo is meant for cafeterias like in a hospital. Again, just upsetting to pay so much and not receive even mediocre quality.
1	0.13%	<input type="text"/>	I'm incredibly unsatisfied with the food that is served in the dining halls. The food is repulsive to the point where myself and many others do not eat there at all. If I go to the dining hall 3 times a week that is generous due to the fact that I am being served almost inedible food for the $2500 I pay. I've always been disappointed in the dining halls, I am repulsed and embarrassed at the food that is served. I personally do not even consider the slop to be food. Sodexo is horrific and I have never not even one time left a dining hall satisfied or slightly happy with what was available.

1	0.13%	<input type="text"/>	Immediately drop Sodexo as the food service provider on campus. They don't listen to feedback at all, the quality of all of their food is terrible. Even the most simple things - plain spaghetti and rice, to name a few - taste awful. They blatantly lie about where they source their food - if not that, then the food they receive is anything but fresh. They likely don't train their employees, or just don't care, based on the amount of times I've seen (and eaten) raw meat or unwashed vegetables that they've prepared. When it comes to having a meal plan, and eating food on campus, let me just say that I refuse to pay any amount of money whatsoever to a food service provider that also provides dining services to prisons. I would go so far as to recommend people choose a different school to attend, solely based on the fact that they would need to eat food provided by Sodexo. I get that providing dining services to thousands of students daily is a hassle and almost certainly requires an outsourced company, like Sodexo, but at this point, literally any other company would probably be an improvement. Home Depot could probably provide better dining services than Sodexo. Other than that, the dining halls don't really need to be improved. Maybe modernized a bit, they're showing some age.

1	0.13%	<input type="checkbox"/>	My main complaint is that, in my opinion, a lot of the food just is not very good and/or healthy. This is not to say that there aren't some great dishes, like the lasagna, roasted turkey with mashed potatoes, shepherd's pie, macaroni and cheese, barbequed pork, corn bread, omelets, baked beans, and chocolate chip bread pudding. But these fantastically-prepared items (except for the omelets, which are thankfully available every day), are hardly ever served. I find any day in which they make an appearance to be quite red-letter. And at times when these foods actually are served, they are given in portions smaller than that which I received in elementary school... forcing me to return to the serving-line again and again. I understand the need to not be wasteful, but a college student being given a literal 2-bite piece of turkey as a "serving size" is kind of ridiculous. But like I said, these options are generally not served. In their place, I tend to find rather bland, generic items that just don't "cut it" for me. It's not that I don't like the foods that these are attempted to be, but what they end up being just aren't very good... for example, I love cheese burgers, but I just can't eat the ones served here. Of course, none of this is to criticize any of the cafeteria staff. They are great. As previously said, they tend to be friendly, fast, and efficient. But they can only do so much with the ingredients that they are given to work with. Two notes on cafeteria cleanliness: It seems that much of the silverware doesn't get adequately-washed. Most of the time, when I go to pull a fork or spoon out of the rack, the first couple have chunks of old food stuck to them... I have to keep digging in the container to find one that is actually clean. This really grosses me out. Also, the municipal ice cream scoops in the Dutch cafeteria fester in the same, gross cup of (non-recirculating) water all day, with giant globs of liquefied ice cream coagulating and congealing with them. It couldn't use those scoops if someone were to pay me to. When I want ice cream, I end up having to search for an actually-clean spoon, and digging it out with that.

1	0.13%	<input type="text"/>	They should get more than one person to make omelettes on the weekend. Lines are way too long and at other universities they have 2-3 workers making omelettes (on weekends, one is good during the week). The food isnt always appealing to the eye and healthy. There should be an option of fresh fruits not canned and fruits that are not completely bruised. Also, an option for fresh steamed vegetables, not frozen. As for meats and starches, they are very bland, inconsistent, and not always appealing to the eye. I am person that likes to eat healthy and also have food that tastes good especially if I am paying over a thousand dollars a semester. I would suggest chicken (legs,wings, thigh, breast), salmon, fish, steak...made with tender, love and care.

Yes, I understand you don't want to have to pay workers for later hours, but deal with it, we're college students, our schedules aren't that of a 9-5 adult yet. Let us live a little. Secondly, actually clean the cups after use, they're so grimy and gross it takes me more time to find a safe cup than decide my entire meal. Next, if you're going to advertise your food as curry, please don't make it tasteless!
1	0.13%	<input type="checkbox"/>	yes, chicken wing wednesdays
1	0.13%	<input type="checkbox"/>	Yes, definitely. Keep it clean such as forks, knives, spoons, plates and languages. Give healthier food. Do not serve a small amount just because they don't want to refill the food, for example, if I want chicken nuggets, the give me 1 or 2 pieces, I ask them for more, they would say no. Improve attitudes and efficiency. STOP PUTTING EXTRA AMOUNT OF OIL ON STIR FRY! Improve cooking, the food taste really bad.
1	0.13%	<input type="checkbox"/>	Yes, offer different sauces and condiments so my food can be customized and have flavor. Also try making the meat less dry. Now for the tea and coffee. There should be a better variety of tea flavors, specifically peach. The coffee is what it is and I've come to peace with that, however there needs to be more half and half. One container of half and half is not enough, if there needs to be cutbacks to make that happen get rid of the skim milk for coffee. There are dispensers for that. The burgers are just unbelievable. They're dry, have no flavor, the buns are hard, and the cheese is disgusting. Also it'd be nice if there was more variety in fries other than steak fries.
1	0.13%	<input type="checkbox"/>	yes, please more vegan options, atleast vegan pizza, everyone can eat that
1	0.13%	<input type="checkbox"/>	yes, purchase better ingredients and better food. As every student goes to the campus center and says "Why can't our dining halls be this good" I realize this is because of financial reasons. But seriously There is alot of room for imrpovement. Maybe put more responsibility in the chefs hands and let them make something they feel passionate about.
1	0.13%	<input type="checkbox"/>	Yes, to have cleaner dishes.
1	0.13%	<input type="checkbox"/>	Yes. It is unfair that students who pay for unlimited meal plans cannot take guests. They are paying over 2,000 dollars a semester, and there is just NO way they are eating $2,000 worth of food. It's honestly disgusting to now allow them to take in a guest every now and again.
1	0.13%	<input type="checkbox"/>	Yes. Recently I have been going to State at 7:15 pm, and there have been no forks. Also, I don't understand why State has cheeseburgers but no hamburgers. I despise cheeseburgers, and other quads, such as Indian, actually make hamburgers plain that you can take. I wish State actually had plain hamburgers. If people want cheese, they should be able to do so themselves. But I haven't been able to have a burger once at all in State because it only serves cheeseburgers. Not to mention if they did hamburgers instead of cheeseburgers, it would save the workers time and make them more efficient. I'm glad the chicken patties are plain there. For awhile State was serving chicken patties with all these sauces on them, and I refused to get them. I feel like when it comes to making chicken patties or hamburgers, one should make them plain and give the students the option to add whatever they wish to them. Also, State Quad has never had the Chocolate Silk Machine work, which is why I don't like State that much as well. The chocolate milk does work, but not the chocolate soy milk (silk milk). Also, the music I want to address. This past Sunday, on Super Bowl Sunday, I ate at State at 7:12 pm, and the music they were playing for once was so good. It had me smiling and laughing even harder when I was talking with my friends, since we could all sing along to the songs that were being played since we actually knew them. Music to me is a big deal, and I'm a strong believer that having good music while eating can enhance your meal. Chris Brown-With You, Nelly-Just a Dream, Ne-Yo-Miss Independent, and My Milkshake Brings All The Boys To The Yard were a few songs that were being played, and I loved each and every one of them. The popular music type for my generation seems to be pop/r&b/hip hop, and that's what the dining hall finally once played on Super Bowl Sunday. My recommendation is that more modern pop/r&b/hip hop music be played instead of rock songs from the 1960's that the majority of us don't even know nor considering good songs. Also, I wish State had a stir fry bar like Indian does. Indian has its own stir fry bar in the back which is absolutely delicious. State unfortunately doesn't have that, and for that reason, whenever interested potential freshman for this school ask me where should they live, I always recommend to them Indian Quad because its dining hall is just so much better. Lastly, I wish State were open until 11 pm on Mon-Thurs like Indian and Colonial are. I hope this were helpful and I would love it if these things actually were taken into consideration.

1	0.55%	<input type="text"/>	I buy my books for a ridiculously large price in the hopes I can sell them back, but the bookstore refuses to buy them. Perfect condition, barely used calculus book. $200 down the drain for me without even a little cash back. Disgusting. Stop ripping us off.
1	0.55%	<input type="text"/>	I don't think this is the schools department-more of a contract with Barnes and noble maybe-but the merch. Is extremely expensive. I want to wear my ualbany gear and show my colors and pride but I can't afford to buy anything from them! Maybe we can have more options for apparel. If I do to my home town and someone sees me wearing ualbany gear-maybe they will tell their niece or whomever who is applying to colleges to think about Albany. It would be smarter marketing to make the clothing cheaper so more people would buy it and promote the school
1	0.55%	<input type="text"/>	I feel that the bookstore should have more sales on the school gear, because I would really like to purchase some things and show school spirit.

1	0.55%	<input type="text"/>	I think it's very frustrating, being a freshman, that when I purchased an iClicker I didn't know I could rent it for cheaper. No one told me, not even the cashier. So when I bought it, I thought I could return it and get my money back when I was done with it but when I came to return it, it was apparently too late. I believe that a time period for something to be handed in at the bookstore and doesn't even notify you about it, is completely unnecessary. I wasted $100.
1	0.55%	<input type="text"/>	i think the service is very good there

1	0.55%	<input type="text"/>	I tried to sell back my textbook however they denied the highest price until the end of the semester.
1	0.55%	<input type="text"/>	I understand that the bookstore prefers to keep things as secure as possible but i feel as if letting students search for the book they need and standing in line to buy the book would speed the process. Our school is becoming to large for us to have to wait for 3 or 4 individuals to get a book while 70+ plus kids waiting in line. Stealing from the school should lead to automatic termination from the school to keep kids from stealing. Or just limit the amount of kids that our allowed in the bookstore at one time. I feel as if either of these processes would lead to faster and more satisfied students instead of us waiting in line for a book that might not even be in the bookstore.

1	0.55%	<input type="text"/>	In several classes, I have had to buy "special packages" containing several books, software, or whatever, which are available only from the campus bookstore. I seriously feel as though I am being taken advantage of by this, with the college attempting to monopolize on the selling of books to its students. I once had to buy one of these "special packages", costing me more than $200.00 for two thin, paperback books. I felt absolutely swindled by this. These "U-Albany textbook-package" systems need to end. I already pay a ton of money just to go to school here... you shouldn't have to squeeze every last bit of money out of me. Also, I have noticed, in desperation, that the bookstore sells two or three different anti-diarrheal medicines, but absolutely nothing for constipation. This makes zero sense to me, especially since many would argue that the latter is a more-serious problem. Finally, it seems to me that much of the school-branded merchandise is way overpriced. $16.00 for a ceramic coffee mug is ridiculous, especially since I have bought comparable, high-quality, mugs from small, independent vendors, for a dollar each. If such "Mom and Pop" restaurants can pull this off, then I can't see why a huge university can't.
1	0.55%	<input type="text"/>	It is more expensive than Mary Jane's. Especially Moshier's 211 accounting book. I paid around $300 (including a brand new iClicker and calculator) just in supplies for that class last semester and I cannot even receive a penny back for the book that I was required to purchase. I asked about buying just connect through the book store since I had a credit and it was such a lengthy process that I just ended up getting the package deal. Way too expensive.
1	0.55%	<input type="text"/>	It seems like none of the science related textbooks ever bought back. Not sure if anything can be done, just complaining!

1	0.55%	<input type="checkbox"/>	The bookstore is very sneaky in the way that their merchandise is priced. For example, they sell the Spanish 100 textbook for about 150 dollars. However, that price is actually for an access code that lasts 2 semesters, when most students only need it for oone.they don't advertise that, and I only found out by chance that I can pay half the price for one semester. I don't enjoy the way in which they handle customers as well. I've worked for them once before and it was not a positive experience.

| 1 | 0.55% | <input type="checkbox"/> | The bookstore is well organize and usually is very neat and clean, but everything is expensive, and they should have more and better discount. |
| 1 | 0.55% | <input type="checkbox"/> | The bookstore prices for textbooks are generally much higher than what you can get the books online for. Also, they tend to give you less money for selling the books back as well. |
| 1 | 0.55% | <input type="checkbox"/> | The Bookstore should have rented textbooks in stock! |
| 1 | 0.55% | <input type="checkbox"/> | The bookstore should include Ualbany themed golf clubs and tennis rackets. |
| 1 | 0.55% | <input type="checkbox"/> | The bookstore should incorporate a more flexible policy on books that are rented in regards to refunds and exchanges, the bookstore should also be open later on weekdays and weekends during the first weeks of the semester. Also the textbook buyback system is a bit of a scam, how does a 300 dollar textbook loss 3/4 of its value in three months? Overall if the University can't afford to give the students a reasonable amount for their textbooks, through the buyback program, they should offer more money for the book in the form of a bookstore gift card, so the students can get there next semester's books at the bookstore. This I believe will drive up revenue and get more returning student consumers. |
| 1 | 0.55% | <input type="checkbox"/> | The bookstore should make all the books available for rent |
| 1 | 0.55% | <input type="checkbox"/> | The customer service is extremely poor. I am constantly met with attitude. |
| 1 | 0.55% | <input type="checkbox"/> | The date to return textbooks is completely irrelevant as people are still figuring out their classes into the cut off point of the return date. | 1 | 0.55% | <input type="checkbox"/> | This is something you guys actually do correctly. Keep it up. Maybe lower prices on textbooks to lessen student debt we already pay so much to attend this school and the money definitely isnt going towards dinning |
| 1 | 0.55% | <input type="checkbox"/> | This semester I rented my books before the first day of classes (as I almost always need the required books) and once I got to classes my professor mentioned that we did not need one of the books anymore. The book was on back order so it did not come in (until apparently the last day to return books for a full refund) but by the time I received the email that my book was ready, I always already at practice, which didn't end until the bookstore was closed. I went the following morning to say I didn't need the book anymore and was sternly |

told that it was too late. After some back and forth, the bookstore took my book back. I was dissatisfied because I was given less than a day to pick up/return my book and I couldn't because of my practice (as I am a student-athlete). I did not read or find anywhere online that said I had until a specific day to return a book that was back ordered. I think in the future there shouldn't be a specific date to return books, especially since it was still in the beginning of school.

I order my books from Chegg, they're way cheaper and buy them back at great prices. The only time I order from the bookstore is if a class has those dumb required packages or UAlbany specific course texts. Again, I say: ripoff. Sorry guys.
