The Center for Autism and Related Disabilities (CARD Albany) will be accepting School Consultation Project applications for the 2016-2017 school year beginning in January 2016.

- The School Consultation Project is a series of trainings developed by educational consultants to provide instruction and resources in evidence-based practices designed to meet the needs of students with autism spectrum disorders.
- The program assists schools in developing building-wide autism resource teams and offers instruction on how to work as a team to support students with these unique challenges.
- A student-centered format is used to design meaningful strategies and interventions to build the capacity of the teams that will be supporting all students with autism spectrum disorders.

The Center for Autism and Related Disabilities is a university-affiliated resource center that brings research and practice together in community settings. CARD Albany provides evidence-based training and support to families and professionals and, through ongoing research, contributes knowledge to the field of autism spectrum disorders.
