This course examines strategies for making good ethical decisions in newsgathering and writing as well as the laws that pertain to daily journalism and public relations. The course covers the major ethical theories and philosophies and the major legal cases that journalists must know. Emphasis will be on actual cases and hypothetical situations encountered in daily journalism. The course pays special attention to some of the most common dilemmas - libel, free press/fair trial conflicts, anonymous sources, and publishing content that can harm people. Only one version of AJRL 225 may be taken for credit. Prerequisite(s): restricted to Journalism, Documentary Studies and History majors and minors. Others may be admitted space permitting, and with permission from the instructor.

This workshop course introduces students to the frontier of online journalism and audience-building strategies. Students develop proficiency with the range of online services and applications that journalists use today, including WordPress, Facebook, Twitter, Adobe Photoshop and video-editing software. The field-based journalism projects include video and photography capture and editing. Students also learn search-engine-optimization headline writing skills and online story editing. Prerequisite(s): AJRL 200Z, or permission of instructor.
Based on journalistic principles, this workshop course provides students with a cross-platform foundation in design, typography and color theory as it applies today in printed publications and mobile devices. Students learn workflow strategies in the editing and fusion of visual and written content for print and online. Projects include the creation of magazines, broadsheet or tabloid print designs and tablet visual design/functionality. Applications include Adobe InDesign and Photoshop. Prerequisite(s): AJRL 200Z, or permission of instructor.

This workshop is devoted to electronic publishing in a wide variety of contemporary contexts - from the Web, to blogs, to E-zines, to Webcasts, and others. Most often, the course will involve publishing at least one issue of a journalistic E-zine, in addition to other assignments that require using other forms of contemporary electronic media. Students will be expected to exercise news judgment; report, write, and edit stories; work with digital imagining; utilize graphic design and layout principles; and work through a publishing process. Prerequisite(s): AJRL 201Z, and either AJRL 390 or 392; or permission of instructor.

This course examines the development of journalism in the United States, emphasizing the role of the press as a social institution. Subjects covered include the function and purpose of the press, evolving definitions of news, changing interpretations of the First Amendment, and the ethical and legal dimensions of free speech. Also examined will be the social, economic, political, technological, and cultural forces that have shaped the practices of journalism today.

This course provides a global perspective on news production and the distribution of media around the world. After studying the political and legal constraints under which international media operate, including the operating procedures of American journalists working as foreign correspondents, the course will explore topics including censorship, information warfare, Internet piracy, the blogosphere, and conflicts between national interests and the media technologies that are unconstrained by national borders. Readings include works by Marshall McLuhan, Umberto Eco, Benjamin Barber, Susan George, and others.

The course explores the increasing predominance of visual media in contemporary life. It examines how traditional narrative forms of storytelling are being replaced by visual forms of storytelling in journalism, photojournalism, film, television, the internet, video games, anime, graphic novels, and advertising. Particular emphasis will be paid to the global flow of visual culture and the technologies that facilitate these cultural exchanges. May not be taken by students with credit for AJRL/TJRL 220.

Students will explore a variety of journalistic styles, with emphasis on compelling narrative and description, combined with the skillful use of quotes and dialogue. The class features intensive critiques of students' work. A variety of formats will be studied: newspapers, magazines, non-fiction books, and online publications. Readings for the course include works by Janet Malcolm, Barbara Ehrenreich, Ellen...
Ullman, Mary Karr, Edward Abbey, Edmund Wilson, Michael Herr, and James Baldwin. Students submit weekly writing assignments and a final portfolio of edited work. Only one version of AJRL 308Z may be taken for credit. Prerequisite(s): AJRL 200Z, or permission of instructor.

AJRL 366Z  Magazine Writing
5237  TTh  2:45-4:05pm  HU 027  Nancy Roberts
This writing-intensive course gives students experience in conceptualizing, researching and reporting, writing, rewriting, and submitting for publication different types of articles that are found in magazines and the features section of newspapers, both print and online. Ethical issues and writer-editor relationships are also examined. Students write several articles of varying length and complete other assignments, such as writing query letters and analyzing magazine content. Prerequisite(s): AJRL 200Z, and AJRL 201Z or 270X; or permission of instructor.

AJRL 475Z  Sports Journalism
9229  W  5:45-8:35pm  HU 116  Ian Pickus
Students will examine and practice modern forms of sports journalism, surveying longform features, broadcast, daily recaps and notebooks, interviews with athletes, social media and blogs, commentary, hard news, and statistical analysis. Through rigorous reading and writing requirements, students will confront classic pieces of sportswriting and contemporaneous works, with specific focus on writing for the web in addition to field reporting for more traditional outlets.

AJRL 380  Photojournalism
7112  Th  2:45-5:35pm  SL G03  Katherine Van Acker
Students develop the critical skills for evaluating and the technical skills for producing, editing, and publishing digital photographs in a variety of formats, including traditional newspapers, satellite transmissions from the field, and Internet websites. While developing their aesthetic and technical skills, students will critique each other's photos in a workshop format. Only one version of AJRL 380 may be taken for credit.

AJRL 385  Broadcast Journalism
5015  M  2:45-5:35pm  LC 13  David Guistina
Students will report, write, produce, air, and record a variety of television and radio news stories with a degree of professionalism resembling what might be found in local newscasts, whether they be short reports or longer, feature-length stories. Working individually or in groups, students will use analog and digital video technologies and recording devices to produce their stories. Prerequisite(s): AJRL 200Z and either AJRL 201Z or AJRL 270X; or permission of instructor.

AJRL 390  Digital Media Workshop I: Web Publishing
8245  MW  1:15-2:35pm  LC 13  Thomas Palmer

AJRL 392  Digital Media Workshop 2: Desktop publishing

Journalism • Fall 2016
AJRL 480  Public Affairs Journalism
10029   TTh  4:15-5:35pm   SS 255   Michael T. Hill
The Capital District offers a unique laboratory for reporting on public affairs at all levels, from the local to the national. These include governmental affairs, but also judicial matters, relations between New York State and the State’s indigenous Indian tribes, and policy issues concerning medicine, technology, business, and education. Public affairs journalism is now part of a large debate about the lengths to which journalists should go in hosting community events and creating an informed citizenry. Along with numerous writing assignments, students will engage in wide reading of journalists who have staked out positions to this debate and operated effectively as reports or advocates in the public arena.
Prerequisite(s): A JRL 200Z and either A JRL 201Z or A JRL 270X; or permission of instructor.

AJRL 495  Internship in Journalism
2062   ARR  ARR  ARR  Holly McKenna
The course is limited to Journalism majors and minors. Internships in a variety of media are offered for variable credit. The internship requires that students work on-site in a professional media organization, under the direct supervision of a qualified supervisor. A faculty supervisor will also design an academic component for the internship, based on readings, daily journals, and the writing of papers that analyze and reflect on the work experience. The faculty supervisor will meet regularly with interns. May be repeated for up to a total of six credits. S/U graded. Prerequisite(s): internships are open only to qualified juniors and seniors who have an overall grade point average of 2.50 or higher and an overall grade point average of 3.0 or higher in their coursework in Journalism.
