The Capital District Writing Project is a vibrant community of K-College educators working to enhance the teaching of writing in the Capital Region. We are a site of the National Writing Project.

During the Invitational Summer Institute, teachers immerse themselves in their own writing and in the study of effective teaching. Gathering on the UAlbany campus, participants study current research and theory, share strategies for teaching writing, and engage in collaborative inquiry. Teachers can earn up to 70 CTLE hours and engage in ongoing professional learning across the year.
