Bibi Chaterpateah, a senior Biology student and GIHHR research assistant, has worked with GIHHR mentor Kathryn Mishkin on research related to HIV-related stigma and discrimination since June 2017. On Saturday March 3rd, 2018, she presented lessons learned through a poster presentation entitled “HIV-related stigma and discrimination serves as a “border” limiting opportunities for HIV care and treatment” at the 2018 UAlbany Women, Gender, and Sexuality (WGS) Studies conference “Resistance Knows No Borders.”

Please see this link for additional information about the conference: https://www.albany.edu/womensstudies/rknb-conference.shtml.

Bibi Chaterpateah presents at the UAlbany Women’s and Gender Studies conference