D=r. Aleksiun will present on her new project on the daily lives of Jews who went into hiding in eastern Galicia (today Ukraine) during World War II. Her study seeks to examine their survival strategies and to provide a detailed account of how the hidden Jews passed the time together, cared for one another, and divided resources during their concealment.

Natalia Aleksiun is Professor of Modern Jewish History in the Graduate School of Jewish Studies at Touro College in New York. She specializes in modern Jewish history in eastern Europe, the history of historiography, and the Holocaust. She is the recipient of several fellowships at prestigious institutions in Europe, Israel, and the United States. Among her numerous publications, Where to? The Zionist Movement in Poland, 1944-1950 and Conscious History: Polish Jewish Historians before the Holocaust. She also co-edited two volumes of Polin: Studies in Polish Jewry.