Do you have 3.5 or higher in history?
What about 15 history credits?
Is your cumulative GPA above 3.25?

If you answered yes, you should enroll in the history department’s honors program. It’s a two-semester experience that will give you close contact with the faculty and intense training in research methods and historical analysis. Students who complete the honors program graduate with honors. They are also eligible for a slew of research prizes.

Apply in March
The application is available on the department webpage and due on March 23.

Enroll in autumn
You’ll take AHIS 495, which focuses on research, and work 1:1 with your faculty mentor.

Finish in spring
In AHIS 496, you’ll write up your research and complete a top-notch paper.
