

UAlbany StAR Grant Funds Artists' Residencies at UAM

The University at Albany Strategic Allocation of Resources (StAR) program has awarded a micro-grant of $8,000 to fund ACE: art on sports, promise, and selfhood, Artist Residencies at the University Art Museum.

The University Art Museum will host a series of two-day artist residencies and public programs related to the exhibition ACE on view June 28 through December 7, 2019. Exhibiting artists Radamés "Juni" Figueroa will be in residency September 24-25; Baseera Kahn, October 22-23; and Ashley Teamer, November 12-13. Artists' residencies will provide on-site engagements with UAlbany students and faculty across the disciplines through lectures, cross-departmental panels, student workshops, class visits, and exhibition tours. The Museum is committed to bringing artists to campus that reflect UAlbany's culturally diverse student demographic. This funding provides our student population with an opportunity to engage directly with younger artists who are addressing relevant issues that impact contemporary culture. We believe that this StAR Proposal will foster a distinctive experience for students from across the disciplines, one that will inspire, challenge, and enliven the campus in new and unexpected ways.

This program is one of 21 proposals selected to support campus-wide initiatives that advance the University's strategic plan. All events will be free and open to the public.
