Databases:

Historical Database of State Campaign Finance Laws. 2018. This database summarizes the campaign finance laws in each state every two years since 1996. Because not everyone will want to use the tool in the same way, the material comes in two formats. One is a compact and attractive visualization that lets users look up the answers to the most common questions. However, the full database has literally hundreds of pieces of information for each state and year (the visualization tool only covers about 10% of these). The full set can be downloaded in whole, or part, to be manipulated on its own or merged with other data sets for deeper research. Creating the database was a team project, taking more than four years and 10,000 hours to complete. The database may be accessed here: <http://cfinst.org/State/LawsDatabase.aspx>. The codebook is here: https://cfinst.github.io/downloads/CFI_StateLaws_Codebook_web.pdf

Database of Congressional Historical Statistics, 1789-1988 [Computer file]. Elaine K. Swift, Robert G. Brookshire, David T. Canon, Evelyn C. Fink, John R. Hibbing, Brian D. Humes, Michael J. Malbin and Kenneth C. Martis. Ann Arbor, MI: Inter-university Consortium for Political and Social Research [producer and distributor], 2000. National Science Foundation Grant No. SBR-9308686. This database was programmed in Oracle and is available on CD in Access, on request, with a 112-page codebook. I was the Principal Investigator for Presidential-Congressional Relations.
