WORK IN PROGRESS:

Reading Antigone: Tragedy, Philosophy, and Psychoanalysis (a book on Sophocles's Antigone).

Insinuations: Encounters between Philosophy and Psychoanalysis (a book on psychoanalysis and the philosophical tradition, focusing on Lacan, Kant, Kojève, Merleau-Ponty, Freud and Derrida).

Aesthetics and Emotion: A Genealogy A book on emotion in the aesthetic domain, focused on four historical moments: (1) pity and fear in Aristotle and Greek tragedy, in the context of emerging democracy; (2) fear and respect in Kant and the esthetics of the sublime at the end of the Enlightenment; (3) pity and "moral sentiment" in Adam Smith, Wordsworth, and British Romanticism; (4) fear and anxiety in Freud, Heidegger, and the uncanny. The project elaborates the unique character of aesthetic experience, as a formation of affect and subjectivity distinct from what appears in legal, medical, religious, philosophical and other discourses.
