Note: These data are from the 2004 Census of Federal Law Enforcement Officers conducted by the U.S. Department of Justice, Bureau of Justice Statistics. This was the first such census conducted since signing of legislation creating the Department of Homeland Security in November 2002. The census covered 65 agencies including 27 offices of inspector general. The data include all supervisory and nonsupervisory personnel with Federal arrest authority who were authorized (but not necessarily required) to carry firearms in the performance of their official duties. The data exclude law enforcement personnel in the U.S. Armed Forces and Federal law enforcement officers stationed in foreign countries. Also, because of classified information restrictions, the Central Intelligence Agency and the Transportation Security Administration's Federal Air Marshals are excluded.
